ALMOST A VICTORY.

Why the Washingtons Did Not Capture a Game Yesterday.

The defeat of the Senators by the Giants yesterday by the score of 4 to 3 was principally to an inability on the part of the former to hit the ball safely when men were on bases often enough, and again to a case of rattles that seized the home battery in the third inning. The Washingtons were all mixed up in their positions, Shoch playing at short in place of Wise, who hurt a finger badly in practice, Mack occupying right field, while Ferson and Clark were in the points. Against them were pitted Welch and Murphy. It is questionable whether the playing of Clark behind Ferson was wise or not, for both are youngsters in the league, without any knowledge at all of the New York-ers' peculiarities. It is not far from a certainty that had Mack been behind the bat from the start at least one, if not two, of the runs made in the second and third innings would not have been made. As it was, Ferson was nervous and unsteady, and in the third pitched two wild balls that enabled runs to tally. The second of these reopened Clark's sore hand and he had to retire from the game, while Mack came up to the plate and Ebright filled right-field. Then Ferson steadied down and there was no more wildness, while he kept the visitors' hits, some of them long, hard ones pretty well scattered. The field work was al most perfect, the Senators doing a little the better. Some of the catches by both leftfielders were excellent, and Murphy earned a generous round of applause by his magnificent eatch of Ferson's foul fly in the seventh.

THE GAME. The visitors scored in the second on a hit by Conner, a steal, Clark's bad throw to second. and Richardson's neatly placed single. Again in the third they got two men around the diamond. Murphy made a hit and went to second and third on a wild pitch. Welch reached first on balls, and Gore drove one to Sweeny that was neatly handled, and proved Murphy's fate between third and home. Welch reached third and Gore second on the play, and then another wild pitch sent the former in. Tiernan sacrificed to Wilmot and Gore scored. The Statesmen started to catch their opponents in the fourth, and should have nade more than the one run that resulted from Wilmot's single and steal. a passed bail. Hoy's base on balls, Mack's neat sacrifice to first, and Myers' base on balls. But one was all they could get, and there was a man left on third and one on second. The visitors would have scored at least a couple in the latter half of the fourth but for poor base runping. Connor was hit and stole second nicely, but he let his large frame trundle too far over the bag and was easily touched out. Richardson then made a rattling two-bagger to the center fence, and came to grief when the bail, handled beautifully by Hoy and Shoch, encountered his person at third in Sweeny's

Sharp fielding by New York alone prevented the home team from scoring in the sixth. Both Hoy and Mack hit safely and then Myers drove one at Hatfield in a spiteful manner. The blond, however, took it calmly and managed to touch Hoy as he ran. Morrill then smashed another at the white-headed young man on third and he was again equal to the emergency and assisted in a good double play at second and first, retiring the side.

The visitors had scored their last run in the fifth on Murphy's three begger and Morrill's excusable fumble of Gore's stinging grounder, and were barely shut off from a run in the sixth. With Ward out Connor hit for three bases and Richardson plumped one right at gripped it and tossed it over to Sweeny, putting out the astonished Roger, who made no effort to get back, but dove for his glove. Richardfice enabled the Senators to fill second and third with but one out. Ferson went out on a foul to Murphy, and Wilmot lined out one that would have gone to the right fence had it not met Conner's hands on its path. It was great luck for Roger.

The home team made a neat rally in the "r." and fell one short of tieing. Hoy sent a line and he scored when Gore dropped Mack's fly. Alvers' sacrifice sent Mack to third, and dorrill's well-timed hit sent Mack home. Sweeny, who saved the game on Tuesday with home run at just such a juncture, was not up to the notch yesterday, and he struck out. Morrill tried to steal with poor success. Nothing more was done by either side except a hit by O'Rourke that availed nothing. Washing-ton made 6 hits and 2 errors, and New York 8

when, with a man on second and two out, Roger | P Connor, who had been hitting hard, came to the bat. Roger wanted another hit, but Ferson winked to Mack and tossed four bad ones off to the left of the plate, and the big man went to first on balls. Richardson then proved the wisdom of the move by flying out to Ebright. cheek from a hot foul from Hoy's bat in the fourth. He let the pain go on for about half an hour and then had to give the state of the an hour and then had to give up. After a long consultation between Morrill and Richardson it was decided to take two players as umpires, the following partial list:

and Sam Wise and George were chosen. The former officiated at the plate for Washington and on the bases for New York. This arrangement proved very satisfactory and the game was finished without a kick. OTHER GAMES. Philadelphia scored in the eleventh, and thus won from Boston, 5 to 4. The batteries were Madden, Ganzel and Kelly, and Casey and Clements. Boston made 13 hits and 4 errors, and Philadelphia 8 hits and 1 error. Cleveland won two games from Chicago. The first was by the score of 7 to 4, Bakely and Snyder, and Dwyer and Darling being the bat-teries. The Ancients made 9 hits and 1 error, and the Infants 10 hits and 3 errors. The score of the second game was 6 to 5, Cleveland making 10 hits and 3 errors, and Chicago 11 hits

To-DAY'S GAMES.

The team plays to-day in Philadelphia, meeting the Ponies after the lattor's disastrous trip to Boston. The Senators will have a hard pull to get a game in their present condition, especially as the Philines will undoubtedly make strong efforts to retrieve themselves.

New York plays in Boston, Pittsburg at Cleveland, and Indianapolis at Chicago.

Washington folks will not su ffer from a lack of base bail while the Senators are in Philadelphia. On Saturday occurs the second game of the series between the Reporters and the Policemen for the benefit of the police relief find. The former's team will be selected from the following: Williams, Simms, Doyle, Harries, McSween, Kanffmann, Jones, Larner, Lyon and Dwyer. President Young, of the National league, will don a mask and official at the services as unpire, and arrangements are in progress to keep the immense crowd or people from pressing into the diamond and disconcerting him.

A well-contested game of base ball was played yesterday between nines from the Columbia athletic club and Deaf Mute college, at Kendall Green, upon the grounds of the latter, which, after six hard-fought innings, was won by the C. A. C. by a score of 9 to-8. The C. A. C. by a score of 9 to-8. The C. A. C. be have an unbroken chain of victories. They appeared in their new uniforms of blue jersey shirts and trousers, with red stockings, and beits and caps of club colorared and blue.

BICYCLES. MITHE "DART CYCLES"
For Ladies and Gents,
w. Fuctory 809 Water st. s.w. BUSINESS.

The attention of the business public is invited with confidence to the superior advantages presented by THE WASHINGTON EVENING STAR AS AR advertising medium. The sworn statements of its dally circulation, published from week to week, taken in connection with the data given below, illustrate in the most striking manner the steady and rapid growth of the paper in circulation and influence. They also establish, beyond controversy, the fact that THE STAR is the best local adtertising medium, not only in the United States, but in the whole world! This claim is based and conceded on the fact that no city in any country is so thoroughly covered by the regular circulation of a single paper as is the city of Washington by that of THE EVENING STAR; and it does not rest on the extent alone, but also on the character of circulation. Not only is its local circulation the largest and fullest of any daily paper printed, in proportion to population, but it is also the BEST, since the paper does not merely go into the hands of the people of the District of Columbia as a body, but into their homes,-into the families of all conditions, and into those of the money-spending ac well as the money-earning portion of the community,-in a much larger ratio than any daily journal that can be named. By reason of the fullness, freshness and reliability of its news, local, domestic and foreign, its independent and fair treatment of all public questions, and especially because of its intelligent and effective de votion to local interests, and its close attention to matters with which the household, and particularly its lauy members, are concerned. THE STAR is everywhere recognized and admitted to be, in every quality, the leading and favorite newspaper of the National Capital, alike in the counting-room, the work-shop, and the family circle. More conclusive evidence on these points no person can ask than that afforded by the table below. The growth of circulation therein indicated, with the analysis following, clearly shows the esteem in which the paper is held by the community to whose interests it is so steadfastly devoted. It will be seen that, in the number of copies issued, every month in the year 1888 shows a handsome increase over the corresponding month in each year given; and, as a further ilius tration on that point, it may be stated here that there has been a corresponding advance in the number of new advertisements printed during the year. The comparative figures for the four years last past are as follows: DAILY CIRCULATION IN 1885-'86-'87-'88
